CLIMATE & AVERAGE TEMPERATURES

Winter, from December to February, is cold. The average temperature is just above freezing (0 °C) but cold spells, during which the temperature can drop to about -10/-15°C, are not rare. The wind chill can make the air feel colder than it actually is.

In spring, from March to May, the weather continues to be unstable. The first warm days alternate with the return of cold weather. In April, the temperature can sometimes exceed 25°C. By May, the average temperature becomes pleasant, although there can still be cool days, while the first heat waves can bring the temperature above 30°C.

Summer, from June to August, is hot, especially in July and August. However, there are different situations also in this season. Cool days with highs around 23/25°C, alternate with hot days and highs around 28/30°C

Autumn, from September to November, is milder and less unstable than the other seasons, at least in the first part. In early September, the weather is often still characterised by heat and humidity with sunshine. Then it quickly becomes mild and relatively quiet until mid-October, while in the second half of October, the first cold days may occur. November can be a good time of year to visit New York because it's not quite too cold to spend time outdoors. Temperatures vary from 14 degrees to 8 degrees. November is a good time to wear layers in NYC as the weather can vary from cool and mild to cold.

FLIGHTS

All meal requests are subject to airline approval and are not guaranteed, therefore we recommend preparing for your flight by bringing appropriate food for yourself, as required.
