Other Important Information

TOUR GUIDE VS. TOUR LEADER

Tour Guide:

Often locals with intimate knowledge of an area, its culture, and history. Their role entails providing commentary, routing the tour, and seeing that people have a good time. They are a licensed, qualified expert who supplies specific information on the history, art, architecture and culture of the city/village/attraction where they are guiding the tour. The guide meets the group at the required place and leaves it at the end of the tour; they do not travel with the group.

Tour Leader:

An experienced person tasked with ensuring the smooth operation of tours, as well as providing practical support to passengers throughout the whole trip. Their role primarily includes assisting with accommodation, transportation between locations, and communication with tour guides at each stop. A tour leader may provide general guidance around a city or village and offer information on the place visited on the bus. However, they are not required to have specific art, architecture, or historical knowledge. They are not allowed to provide a guided tour or commentary of a city/village/attraction once there and, if caught doing so, can be fined.

Please note: Tour leaders/guides are not a standard inclusion in all travel offers. Tour leaders/guides will only be made available when required to enhance the experience of the destination featured.

CLIMATE & AVERAGE TEMPERATURES

Vancouver

In August, Vancouver enjoys its peak summer weather, characterised by pleasant daytime highs ranging from 22°C to 24°C and cool, comfortable evenings around 14°C. As one of the driest months of the year, it typically sees only 5 to 8 days of light rain, offering plenty of sunshine and long daylight hours for outdoor activities. The air remains relatively crisp with low humidity, making it feel warm without the intensity of a tropical climate, though it's always wise to carry a light sweater for the noticeable dip in temperature after sunset.

Alaska

In Alaska, August marks the transition from late summer to autumn, with daytime highs typically ranging from 15°C to 18°C and dipping to around 9°C at night, though it is also one of the state's rainiest months. By September, the air cools significantly as fall colours peak, with temperatures averaging between 10°C and 13°C during the day and falling toward 3°C or lower overnight, often bringing the first dusting of snow to higher elevations. Because both months are quite wet and temperatures fluctuate between coastal and interior regions, you'll need a waterproof jacket and versatile layers to stay comfortable.

Japan

In September, Japan transitions from the lingering heat of summer to the beginning of autumn, with Tokyo and the coastal town of Oarai experiencing warm and humid conditions where daytime highs often reach 26°C to 28°C and nighttime lows settle around 20°C. Further north in Miyako (Iwate), the weather is slightly milder but still pleasantly warm, with highs averaging 24°C to 25°C and a cooling trend that brings evening temperatures down to about 17°C. It is important to note that September is the peak of the typhoon season across the country, making it one of the wettest months of the year; travellers should expect high humidity and occasional heavy rain, particularly in the first half of the month, and are advised to pack light, breathable layers along with reliable rain gear.
