Other Important Information

TOUR GUIDE VS. TOUR LEADER

Tour Guide:

Often locals with intimate knowledge of an area, its culture, and history. Their role entails providing commentary, routing the tour, and seeing that people have a good time. They are a licensed, qualified expert who supplies specific information on the history, art, architecture and culture of the city/village/attraction where they are guiding the tour. The guide meets the group at the required place and leaves it at the end of the tour; they do not travel with the group.

Tour Leader:

An experienced person tasked with ensuring the smooth operation of tours, as well as providing practical support to passengers throughout the whole trip. Their role primarily includes assisting with accommodation, transportation between locations, and communication with tour guides at each stop. A tour leader may provide general guidance around a city or village and offer information on the place visited on the bus. However, they are not required to have specific art, architecture, or historical knowledge. They are not allowed to provide a guided tour or commentary of a city/village/attraction once there and, if caught doing so, can be fined.

Please note: Tour leaders/guides are not a standard inclusion in all travel offers. Tour leaders/guides will only be made available when required to enhance the experience of the destination featured.

CLIMATE & AVERAGE TEMPERATURES

Copenhagen

Copenhagen in June and July offers pleasant summer weather, making it an ideal time to visit. In June, average daytime high temperatures typically reach around 19-20°C (66-68°F), while nights are cooler, dropping to about 11-13°C (52-55°F). It's one of the sunniest months with ample daylight hours (around 17-18 hours), and while there's a moderate chance of rain, showers are usually brief. The city's beaches and harbor baths become popular as the sea temperature begins to warm up. Moving into July, Copenhagen experiences its warmest period, with average daytime highs often reaching 20-21°C (68-70°F), and comfortable evening lows around 13-16°C (55-61°F). July continues to offer long daylight hours and plenty of sunshine, though it can be slightly wetter than June with a higher chance of scattered showers. Both months are generally considered comfortable and mild, perfect for exploring the city's outdoor attractions and enjoying the vibrant summer atmosphere.

Svalbard

Svalbard in June and July experiences its brief but intense "polar summer," characterized by 24-hour daylight due to the Midnight Sun and the mildest temperatures of the year. In June, average daily high temperatures typically hover around 3°C to 5°C, with lows dipping to about -1°C to 1°C. While snow melting begins, it can still feel quite chilly, and some areas may retain snow cover. Moving into July, it's the warmest month, with average daily highs reaching approximately 6°C to 8°C, and lows around 2°C to 4°C. Days above 10°C are rare, but the continuous daylight and relatively "warm" conditions compared to the rest of the year make it the prime time for wildlife viewing, hiking on exposed tundra, and exploring by boat as sea ice recedes. Despite being summer, visitors should always be prepared for cold, windy, and potentially damp conditions, with layering essential.

Tromso

In June, Tromso, Norway, experiences cool but generally mild weather as it transitions into summer. The average daily temperature typically ranges from a high of around 10°C to 11°C (50-52°F) and a low of around 4°C to 5°C (39-41°F). While it's one of the warmer months for Tromso, it can still feel quite cold and breezy, so layers and a jacket are recommended. A significant draw for visiting Tromso in June
